

About Film London

Film London is the capital's screen industries agency. We connect ideas, talent and finance to develop a pioneering creative culture in the city, which delivers success in film, television, animation, games and beyond. We work to sustain, promote and develop London as a global content production hub, support the city's new and emerging filmmaking talent and invest in a diverse and rich film culture. Funded by the Mayor of London and the National Lottery through the BFI, we also receive support from Arts Council England and the Department of Industry and Trade (DIT). Film London has a national remit through the British Film Commission and delivers Games London in partnership with games trade body UK Interactive Entertainment (Ukie). Film London is a registered charity.

About the British Film Commission

The British Film Commission (BFC) is the national organisation responsible for maximising feature film and television inward investment in the UK. The BFC is the national division of Film London.

The BFC leads on maximising and supporting the production of international feature film and high-end television in the UK; strengthening and promoting the UK's production infrastructure; and working with the UK Government to secure and maintain film- friendly policies.
